

„I used to hate different people...”

Poem about Diversity

I used to hate different people

But now I know it is so simple

I always fough we are so different

Bat I never see everybody as their individual

I once had a seed of hate

But now I straight look it as a weight

If I coul break down boundaries

I would ist see and directly do it

I never just sit and reach for the skies

But I might just break down the sozial lies

I can't just hav a rassism mind

But I can see the strength of beeing polite.

I used to have prejudice

But now I see everybody as their individual
